I would like to take a small part of my day to say how grateful, and overwhelmed I am by the thoughtfulness and kindness, shown to me and my colleagues in all of the emergency services, during the past two days in Glasgow. It has been a very difficult time for us after losing people, who we think of as family. Your volunteers were there to provide us with very welcome warm food, and a smile to help keep our spirits up. Having young men and women who have given up their weekend, to support us has been very humbling. I am sure you will understand I can not speak in an official capacity, but personally feel you have gone a long way to restore my faith in human kindness. Thank you all so much. God bless.
